Continuation School Planned In Marina

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District may open a second continuation high school in Marina in time for the spring semester, which starts January 29.

Trustees authorized an application for approval of the plans when they met January 15.

A second continuation school would aid the district financially, relieve overcrowding at the existing continuation school in Seaside and ease transportation problems, trustees were told.

A site for the school has not been chosen, but the superintendent said it could be located in a portable classroom at Crumpton School, or in a classroom at Marina Vista School. He said the second school would be designed to house up to 40 students, although only half that number would be taking classes at any given time.

Petersdorf explained that Cypress Continuation High School, in Seaside, has a current enrollment of about 130 students, with more on a referral list waiting to get in. Because of the nature of state funding formulas for such schools, he said the district would receive more money by opening a second school than for expanding the existing school. He also noted that the second school would bring about a financial advantage once the new financing plan brought about by Senate Bill 90 takes effect. SB 90 is known as the property tax relief and school finance measure, passed recently by the state legislature and signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Petersdorf told the board that the establishment of a continuation school in Marina would lessen transportation problems for students who live in that area and who now have to travel to Seaside to attend school.

Having dealt with that high school problem, the board turned to the other end of the spectrum, discussing the effects of the state's new early childhood education legislation on the district's primary grades.

Dr. Henry Hutchins, assistant superintendent for elementary education, explained that the state's plan calls for the naming of a district-wide advisory committee, representing parents, businessmen and others in the community, as well as school employees. This committee, he said, would be responsible for developing goals and objectives for the primary programs, establishing a timeline for implementing the state plan, conducting a needs assessment at each school and then selecting the schools that would be initially involved.

Dr. Hutchins said he expects about four schools to be involved next year, with the remainder phased in over a five year period.

Each school involved in the program must have its own advisory committee to help develop, oversee and evaluate the curriculum, he said.

Dr. Hutchins noted that the state plan currently involves youngsters in kindergarten and in grades one, two and three. Plans to include pre-schoolers were dropped as part of a political compromise in Sacramento, he explained.

Under the program, schools will be paid an additional $130 per student in the primary grades to help beef up the educational program there. The hope is that a strengthened primary program will provide students with the tools they need to succeed in the upper grades. The plan also insists on thorough involvement of the community in the primary programs, establishing guidelines for the advisory committees to guarantee inclusion of each ethnic and socio-economic group in the community.

In other action, trustees approved bids for the purchase of a new car, a station wagon and a dumptruck as part of the district's equipment replacement program. The cost will range just over $15,000. Also accepted were bids totaling over $18,000 for the purchase of six pickup trucks. The actual purchase of these trucks, however, will be contingent upon receipt of additional funds, if any, that may come during the course of this year.

A report on the 1971-72 audit indicated that the district's accounts are in good order, although discrepancies were found due to clerical errors in attendance keeping and problems in keeping records at the Seaside Child Care Center.

Business Manager Melvin J. Isenberger told the board he recommended no action be taken on what he called an "open-ended contract" for installation of water lines that would serve a 10-acre school site in the Hidden Hills area.

Telephone Company Volunteers Help Seaside Students

Some 18 of them are being tutored Wednesday nights by nine Pacific Telephone employee volunteers from Monterey and Salinas.

And the effort is paying off. Eighth grader Chris Yokojawa said "A few days ago I began to think working with fractions was fun."

A classmate, Wanda Smith, admitted, "I didn't like algebra at first. But now I know how to do it, and I relate with it."

The program's coordinator at the school, James Rucker, added, "I know one student who wasn't too interested in anything until one of the tutors started working with him. Another girl swears by her tutor. She says it's the best thing that has happened to her."

Of another student's reaction, Rucker said, "This little fellow is constantly asking for one of the tutors when she comes in. He would like to be kind of a hard guy, but she--his tutor--handles him pretty well. And he likes it."

The tutors like it too. "I'm enjoying it because these kids are quite grateful for what little we are able to do for them," said Flora Gledhill, a service assistant at Pacific's Franklin Street office in Monterey. "You can tell from the expression on their faces, seeing the light after you have gone around the bush a few times explaining something to them. You see the satisfaction."

Alma Ogle, an assistant traffic operating manager at the company's Franklin Street office, said, "I've enjoyed tutoring immensely. My first student was a real challenge because he works part time, and he has to work whatever hours they give him in the evenings."

"He had problems in social studies and English. He came in with one line. He was supposed to write a full page. We worked together, and at the end of it, he had a page."

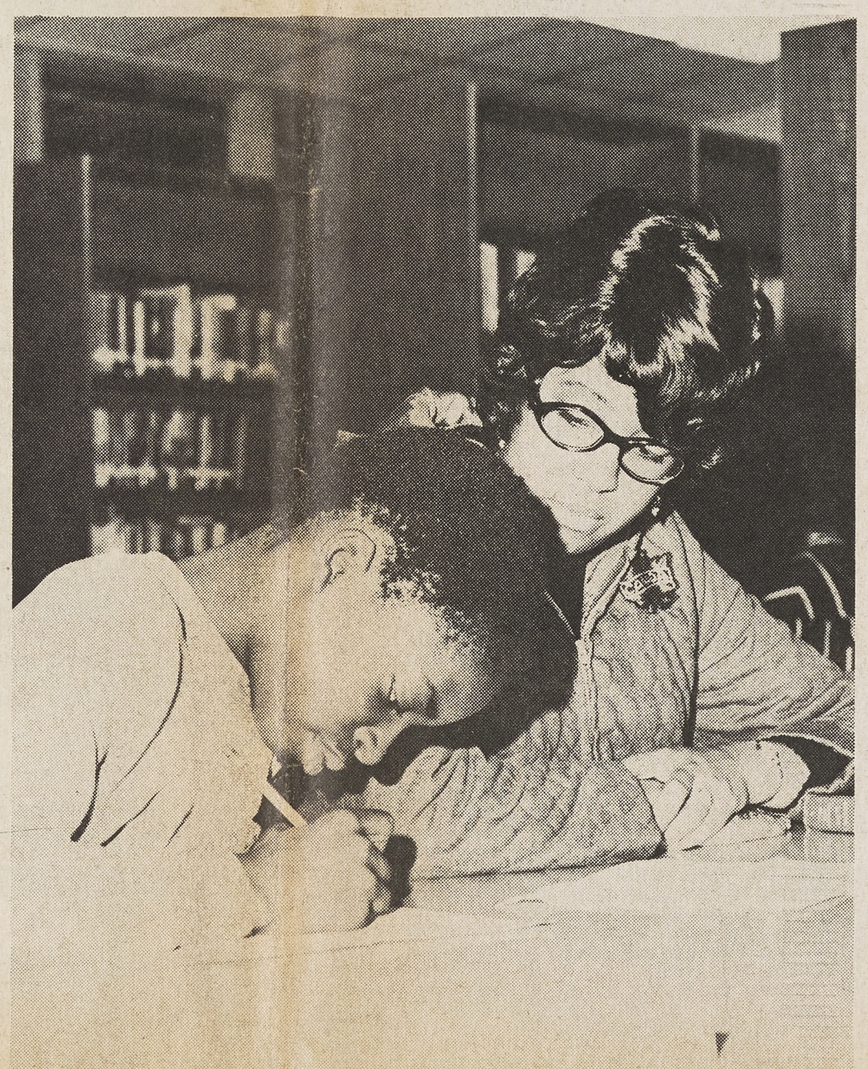
"He got his first 'hundred' on it, and he really was heartened. I was able to catch his interest."

Word of successes like these has begun to get around the Seaside area. As a result several high school students have come for help in biology, chemistry, and algebra.

What has attracted them and kept the younger students coming back too is an element of warmth and personal concern even more important than expertise in math, language or science.

An outsider would have no trouble recognizing it as Mrs. Gledhill boasted, "My husband has a boy so alert and fast that he has trouble trying to keep up with him."

Then she paused and added, smiling, "One night we stayed for a PTA meeting to listen to their chorus because some of our students were in it."



VOLUNTEER TUTOR - John Worley (left), King Junior High seventh grader, solves math problem with help of Cheryl Hill, service representative at Pacific Telephone's Monterey business office. Later this year he and other students in tutoring program will be invited to visit phone company offices to learn how school subjects are applied to solve real problems.

A.E. Barragan

The arrival of the new year is traditionally a time for making nobel promises to give up this and take up that and in general to be a better person. The life span of most resolutions is unfortunately short, but there are ways in which we can be helped in making good on good intentions.

Here are just a few:

January of 1973 is March of Dimes Month. The March started as a funding effort in the drive to conquer polio. It was beautifully successful, so much so that now the March has taken a new beneficial direction, that is, the fight against birth defects. A pledge to the March of Dimes is a pledge to try to make things better for fellow humans who need help. January also is United Cerebral Palsy Month, which offers a similar opportunity to share with others during the New Year.

Then, it's National Blood Donor Month, as well. Many among us cannot contribute to this charitable work, but for those who can it is the most personal possible way to give of one's self for another's benefit.

In a somewhat different context, January 1 to 7 was Big Brother Week. That was not a celebration of the advent of George Orwell's 1984, but an effort to stimulate young men to "adopt" a lonely boy as a brother, and to give him that warm, helpful human contact he so needs.

Today's Army NEWS By SSG R. Cardwell ARMY RECRUITER

Hi everybody!

When you read words written by Ernest Hemingway, you find it easy to believe he was once a newspaperman. The sentences are wonderfully lean and do a surprisingly large amount of work. And, of course, there is that directness which English teachers love so much. In fact, there are many students who will tell you that English teachers are obsessed with Hemingway. Many are. They're obsessed with the incredible power he achieves from juxtaposing otherwise simple words one after another. And any time students submit papers or exposes which reveal a greater concern for style than content, they are reminded of the great things Ernest Hemingway accomplished with his simple and direct approach.

To break into journalism without a degree and some experience, a young person needs an inordinate amount of luck. Some of those who prefer not to trust their careers to the caprice of the job market are turning to other areas for a start. One of the more attractive is the new Army. Generally, Information Specialists are charged with preparing factual reports of Army activities and special missions. They also assist in the instruction of Army personnel as to what is expected of them in their roles as soldiers or special workers.

So far this month 10 Peninsulans have enlisted in TODAY'S ARMY. John J. Laudenslager from Carmel enlisted for the Special Forces Option. John was a prior service enlistee. Dennis C. Black, who resided at 880 Foam Ave., Monterey, took advantage of the $1500 Bonus and will serve in Panama. Richard E. Kreider 500 Belden, Monterey, also enlisted for the $1500 Bonus and work in Germany.

From Seaside were James J. Rymut 750 Elm Ave. James enlisted in our Delayed Entry Porgram. Tommie L. Warner will be serving at Ft. Ord in the Food Service Field. Tommie resided at 1624 Waring St. Frank C. Craig 1709 Luzern also enlisted for the $1500 Bonus with the 82 Airborne Div. at Ft. Bragg, N.C. William L. Knight 102 Booker St., Ft. Ord, enlisted in the Delayed Entry Program. This program enables young men and women to enlist in the U.S. Army Reserves now and report for active duty up to 180-days from the date of enlistment in the US ARMY Reserves.

Marina has had three enlistees so far. Bryan W. Friend 3082 Helena Way, chose the Conus Station of Choice Enlistment Option and will be serving at Ft. Ord in the Wire Maintenance Field. Joseph F. Watson, 3109 Seacrest Ave., enlisted for the Regular Army Option. John was a prior Service enlistee. And Michael L. Woolhiser 457 Kelly Ct. will be serving in Europe. He also received the $1500 Bonus to take with him.

Young men, and now for the first time young women, who are interested in attending the California Maritime Academy should make plans to take the required entrance examinations, according to the admissions office of the Vallejo institution.

The tests are given monthly, but registration is required several weeks in advance. Information on these tests may be obtained from the guidance counseling center of any high school.

The Maritime Academy trains student for career afloat and ashore in the maritime industry, and is one of five such state-supported institutions in the United States.

Give up smoking? Great! Go to church more regularly? By all means. But to have a Happy Year, which we wish you, have a Helpful Year.

Before we speak of the wonderful progress my boss in making, and how he beams brighter and brighter daily, thanks to all the prayers and good tidings bestowed upon him, I shall repeat something I read that was printed in the Independant Journal's Reporter's Notebook column by Ms. Pat Perry of San Rafael.

Once upon a time there was an Air Force sergeant who was stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base and fell in love with Marin County. "Eureka!" he cried, gazing at the Pacific Ocean from the pastoral loveliness of Bolinas.

It was, he decided, just the place for the family's home when he retired from the Air Force. So he made a down payment on an acre of land at Bolinas, and while he was stationed overseas he thought long and livingly about the house he would some day build there. For six years he made monthly payments on his little piece of Bolinas until it was all his. He was mildly surprised when the Marin County assessor's office annually informed him that its value had skyrocketed. The increase in assessed valuation, said the long-distance letters, meant he'd have to pay much higher taxes.

So our sergeant paid more and more taxes on his future homesite in Bolinas; not complaining about supporting the schools in West Marin and the splendor of the Civic Center and the College of Marin and so forth, because that is the American Way.

He understood that, and was willing to pay for it.

When it came near time to return to America, he learned that he might have to wait a while to build on his little place in the country. The water district had slapped a moratorium on all new water hookups in Bolinas, he learned.

He couldn't quite understand this, because water district directors don't have planning authority. He began to wonder if things were changing. And when he came back to Marin County, clutching the plans for his dream house in his hot, retired hands, he found he certainly couldn't build on the land. No water, hence no building.

So, sighing, he put money down on a house elsewhere in Marin and thought he'd sell his land in Bolinas to augment his puny G.I. Bill money. And that's when our sergeant learned that Property Still Begets Responsibility -- With No Benefits!

"You can't give away land in West Marin," warned the realty men, "unless of course, you're a major land holder - then you can sell it as a nature preserve at a vast profit." Before he could put their warning to a test, the people of California passed a coastal initiative, effectively putting his ocean view lot into the icebox.

"The right to own private property is no longer inalienable" said the old-time homeowner, secure in their private homes.

"Keep West Marin for the birds and the visitors," said the ecologist, secure in their homes in East Marin.

"We don't want anyone else building houses in our lovely West Marin," cried all the people who'd already built their homes in lovely West Marin. Even some of the people who have houses in West Marin they only inhabit a few weeks a year joined in the keep-'em-out cries. "Land speculators get what they deserve!" cried the opponents of all development anywhere - crying from their already constructed homes.

"Keep paying your taxes," warned the county assessor's office.

All our bewildered sergeant knows is that he owns a pleasant piece of land overlooking the ocean. It's on a paved road, with houses all around, and he is, by community will, forced to keep it as a kind of Involuntary Open Space.

To him it seems remarkably like confiscation with out compensation. And he has many companions in his plight.

Then I looked at the names of the appointed "referees" that have been selected to the Board to enforce and review the many complaints that are subjected to arise. Let us all hope that their decisions will be just in the eyes of God.

Since I have previously informed you that Andy is doing fine, maybe I should call it a day. We love you all. Thank you.

Chamber of Commerce Progress Report

MILITARY APPRECIATION VARIETY SHOW

It looks like the special "Military Appreciation Variety Show," sponsored by the Seaside Chamber of Commerce, on Saturday, January 27, at 8 p.m. at the Monterey Peninsula College Gymnasium is going to be a huge success. Over 2000 tickets have been sold to 36 participating businesses (listed in advertisement in paper) throughout Seaside. Merchants will be distributing the tickets (a $5 value) free to people from all branches of the military service.

The variety show promises to be very exciting. Outstanding entertainers, including local personalities such as Barbara Kelly from the Warehouse, Jerry Winters and Sioux Scott of the Outrigger, Debbie Joyce and about 13 other acts, including a juggler, a fire eater, can-can dancers, a barbershop quartet, rock music, country-western, plus a sprinkling of celebrities from the Bing Crosby Tournament. Get your tickets soon. The supply is limited.

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

A new Government Affairs Committee has been formed in the Chamber, headed by Dick Penrose of Seaside Pharmacy, to look into local legislation, county and state laws. The purpose of the committee is to learn more about government action and planning and to make recommendations to the City Council and Board of Supervisors about legislation which affects the business community.

At the first meeting of the Committee (it will meet the first and third Wednesday of each month at the Chamber Office at 8 a.m.), committee members discussed the proposed parking ordinance which was on the agenda for Thursday's Council Meeting. The committee recommended to the Chamber's Board of Directors that some action should be taken.

It was suggested at the Board meeting that even though this problem does not directly affect the business community, the Chamber should take action and did recommend to the Council that we do not support the ordinance as written.

The Board also suggested that the Chamber should help to establish a Homeowners Association in Seaside, so that legislation directly affectomg the homeowner could have representation at Council meetings.

Supervisor Roger Poyner, who attended the Chamber's Board of Directors meeting last Thursday, did mention that it is important that the Chamber should provide input into the legislative process and that providing alternatives is good. He said that any law made by the Council, County Supervisors or State Legislature has an effect on the Business Community.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber are now meeting the first and thrid Thursdays of each month. Everyone is invited to attend.

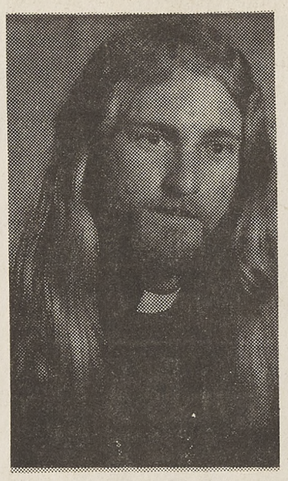
We were fortunate to have four students who live in Seaside attend the last meeting of the Board. There were Ray Lee Heggemeier and Angelo Garcia, who attend Seaside High; and Alan Fowler and Claudia Olds from Monterey High.

CAREER EDUCATION

Six students from Seaside High toured Wester Volkswagen on Thursday, January 18. They had attended the Mini-Seminar in October. Del Monte Aviation presented a fine seminar on Monday at Seaside High.

Soul Food

by Rev. Richard J. Hooper
Director, Mission:Possible



Down from the Mountain

About a month and a half ago I met a Black brother from Seaside who was, at the time, working as a caterer. He had a lot of food left over from a wedding, and after hearing about our half-way house, he brought the food to us.

This person, as it turned out, was a monk! He has arrived in the city from Immaculate Heart Heritage at New Camadoli in the Big Sur hills. His legal name is Charles White, but everyone knows him as Brother Christopher.

Since this time I have gotten to know Brother Christopher much better, and have found that he is a very deep, loving and spiritual person who has gained much wisdom in his twenty nine years of life, much, I'm sure, as a result of his monastic life.

Brother Christopher is presently running a half-way house or "self - help center," St. Joseph's Manor, out of his own home in Seaside, with no monetary support from anyone. This being the case, and because I felt Brother Christopher could contribute much to our organination, plans are now under way to incorporate St. Joseph's Manor into Mission: Possible.

While Brother Christopher's main ministry will be running St. Joseph's Manor, we are hoping he will also make many other contributions to Mission: Possible as a regular staff member.

In this capacity I have asked him to share this Soul Food column with me from time to time, with the hope that he will give another demension to the column since he is Roman Catholic and Black, and thus can share with readers a certain perspective which I cannot.

This column today, then, will serve as an introduction to Brother Christopher, who will be writing this column next week.

We also hope that in the near future we can have a feature story in the Post about Mission: Possible, with special emphasis on St. Joseph's Manor, since the Manor directly serves the Seaside community.

Inspirations

SAVING GRACE FOR OTHERS

Christianity has had an effect upon every society. The influence is carried forth by each believing soul that put his trust in the Christ of calvary. Salvation changes the life of the believer, his thinking, his matter of speech, his belief, ect. Since God has so wonderful saved us, we are now ready to offer sacrifices of our fellow-man in His name. God seached out His hand of mercy when we were sinking deep in sin. We likewise should reach out and give a helping hand to that soul, who is not only sinking, but is drifting away in sin.

We sing the praise, "Reach out and touch somebody's hand if you can. We can give out make this world a better place if you can. We can give out our best to men. We can give money and clothing, but the only thing that we can offer to satisfy the sould of dying men and women is the knowledge of the Saving Grace of Jesus Christ.

You are a very important person in God's plan for the salvation of men. Your life that Christ lives through you, will bring others to know God. God saved you, you can, with God's guidance, save others.

Your Mayor Reports

Joe Dolan

Dog-GONE! Literally, the progressive City of Seaside is going to the dogs. Last Thursday, five of our concerned citizens raised a "howl" during the Council meeting about dogs running rampant in every residential neighborhood.

Children, enroute to and from schools, are being harassed by various breeds of large dogs. The picture isn't very pretty if you can visualize a frightened little girl or boy being threatening by a 125 pound German Shepherd. This picture also applies to adults - especially anyone who has a feat of dogs. It's a traumatic experience.

Extensive damage to shrubbery and flowers has been attributed to man's best friend. Several near auto accidents were discussed as a result of dogs darting across streets and also when a dog stops in the middle of a road.

A section from our Animal Control Ordinance reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person owning or having charge, care or control of any dog, whether licensed and vaccinated or not, to suffer or permit any such dog to run at large on any public street, road, alley, school yard, park, square, or place, or on any vacant or unenclosed lots or land within the corporate limits of the City."

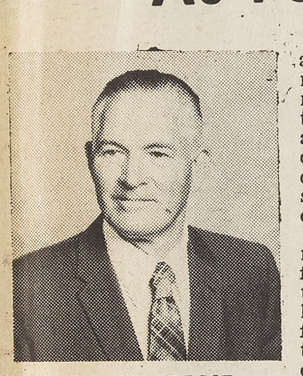
What are the solutions to the problem?

The Police Department has been instructed to enforce the Animal Control Ordinance and to issue citations to violators of our "Leash Law." The County has been requested to increase the frequency of the Animal Control Officeers patrols in Seaside.

However, this problem can only be solved in the final analysis, by the people of Seaside. Law enforcement and increased patrols by the Animal Control Officers will not prove to be the cure IF we have a totally indifferent attitude and continue to permit our four-legged friends to run loose.

We request that you demonstrate your love for your fellow man - and your dog - by keeping your dog secured and thus also protected.

As I See It



BY MEL VERCOE

The right to free speech and free press is guaranteed by Article 1 of the Bill of Rights, but it is beginning to look as though the guarantee may not mean a great deal. A new car guarantee, for example, if the manufacturer or the dealer go out of business, may not be of much value. We would like to think that the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights will never go out of business. However, slowly and quietly and surely we are being led to the point where some morning we are going to awaken to a whole new world, an America without freedom of the press and speech, and outspoken critics like myself will be wearing striped suits.

And, sadly enough, it will be and is being done under the guise of patriotism and national security. We have been so well conditioned that it is now taken for granted that dissent against the idiotic Vietnam war must be some kind of communist subversion. Real patriotism, by Administration standards, requires that we submit quietly while our resources and our men and our future are destroyed for the sake of an anti-communist paranoia.

About two weeks ago the Administration put out a little feeler in the form of a directive that radio and TV stations had better do something about forcing the networks to change their news slants. It is no secret that some national commentators have been critical of Administration policies, and a great deal of pressure was put on the networks themselves several months ago to shape up and line up lest Uncle get sticky about their licenses, so this new approach is really not much more than a crude backward refinement of the other approach.

But it is nothing to sneeze at and dismiss lightly. We have an Administration about as responsive to the people as Batista was in Cuba. We have a Congress that reminds me of a man sitting in a bathroom unable to decide what to do, and we have a Supreme Court that is about to be completely dominated by the White House. It is indeed a very interesting time to be alive and watching history being made, but I find it a bit scary that we are possibly the last of the Mohicans as far as free elections and freedom of speech and the press are concerned.

Bob Wood Reports

The right of a person of refuse medical treatment and choose to die has never been spelled out in California laws although the issue has been apparently clarified in some states. A number of states consider refusal to accept treatment when it is available to be legally tantamount to suicide and suicide is against the law in many states although it has been many years since anyone has been prosecuted for attempting to commit suicide in this country.

Apparently the Patient's Bill of Rights, adopted by the 7000 member hospital group, was drafted after a long study by hospital officials and four consumer representatives. It is in sharp variance with present practices by physicians and surgeons. Another one of the points of the Patient's Bill of Rights says the patient has the right to obtain from his physician complete, current information concerning his diagnosis, treatment and prognosis in terms the patient can reasonably expect to understand

Perhaps the most controversial of all the points is the one that says the patient has the right to obtain from his physician the information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure or treatment and the patient must be made aware of all alternatives to the treatment suggested by the doctor.

Undoubtedly extensive legislative hearings will result if and when clarification of our laws are necessary to adopt portions of the Patient's Bill of Rights. I can't help but think that there are many of us who might feel that if a man is in terrific pain, has been analyzed as terminal cancer and asked the right to die rather than to be fed intravenously and postpone the ultimate end, then maybe he should have that right to make that decision.

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR: On Christmas Day, December 25, 1972 my son and I had the privilege to attend the free Christmas turkey dinner at the Assembly of God Church of Seaside. It was quite an experience.

The setting and decoration of the dining hall, the family dining tables, all beautifully arranged and appropriately designed, with soft music of Christmas carols playing from the tapes, impressed us a lot. The church young people, smiling, friendly, helpful, dressed up for the occasion, were serving the hundreds of people who came. The men and women of the church spent hours cooking and dishing out the bountiful food to a continous line of guests, who came alone, with their families, or from Ft. Ord and other areas.

Many complete dinners in paper plates were personally delivered to the shut-ins and elderly citizens of the City; we know because we helped to in making three deliveries. Truly the Spirit of Christmas and good will to mankind were much in evidence that day, shown particularly by the gracious hosts and hostesses of that church in Seaside.

Many thanks and hats off to Rev. Lee Mildon, his staff, members of his church, and to all those who helped make it possible for so many to enjoy their Christmas day. God bless them all!

Editor: A UPI dispatch states "....that more than 2 million elderly Americans still live below the government-defined 'poverty line." This is bad enough, but is it anywhere near the whole story?

We learn that a study was published by the Senate's Special Committee on the Aging. It was based on what the Social Security Administration defined as "poverty." To it, proverty meant only when a single elderly had an income of less than $1,980 ($23 per wk!) and a couple less than $2520 ($48 per wkP)

The old adage goes: "firgues don't lie - but liars will figure!" Who, pray, arrived at the notion of such low figures? Above them supposedly a person is doing well?

Social Security Administration and other government agencies, please catch up with the facts of life! It is not the year 1920 or the depression year of 1935, this is 1973. It costs an awful lot to live! People need: rent, food, clothing, insurance,furniture, household goods, electricity, phone gas, transportation (usually a car and its upkeep) for a modest American standard of living They need stationary and postage, cues forclubs, church contributions, recreational expenses, some savings, and occasional visits to relatives or friends out of town. And once in a blue moon, a vocation!

They need money for taxes, charitable causes, laundry and cleaning. They need funds for bills not paid by Medicare - part or/or in whole - of doctors, hospitals, dentists, chiropractors, nursing care, druggists, for glasses, for hearing aids etc.

Sure the elderly of insufficient-funds can do without - sleep outdoors, scrounge in garbage pails, be mendicants'; perhaps then they could get by on the rediculous so-called POVERTY LINE FIGURES the government dishes out! Is such a coolie standard of life what is aimed at by responsible men in government?

By defining poverty's ceiling level so LOW, men in authority REDUCE BY MANY MILLIONS THE ACTUAL NUMBER OF POOR ELDERLY. At least haf of the 22,000,000 retired folks are having a hard time keeping heads above water! Why not state the facts of life?

By setting such a nonsensical-low figure of POVERTY LEVEL, many old folks are denied legal aid, food stamps, payments as parents of deceased retired veterans, welfare benefits and other help. When aid is applied for one is asked: Do you have income above the poverty level of chicken-feed? If you do, nothing can be done for you!

When will "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" really do what's right by the elderly - the people who did much to build our land? When will it see that after a lifetime of toil, a single elderly be provided with an income of at least $5,000 and a married couple of at least $7.500, to be increased annually if inflation continues? Golden years? Harvest years? Retired years? Call the remaining days of retired folks what one may - must they be in actuality barren, trying, deprived years?

Must hundreds of billions be wasted on all sorts of stupid adventures abroad while fellow Americans by the many millions are left helpless and wretched?

Sincerely yours,
George Herman,
Marina

Taxes Are Distributed

State Board of Equalization Member George R. Reilly recently announced that $37,6 million will be distributed this week to California cities and counties from local sales and use tax funds collected by the State Board of Equalization for the fourth quarter 1972.

The City of Seaside will received $22,000 as its share of the Bradley-Burns one percent local sales and use tax moneys collected by the Board, and the County of Monterey will receive $37,500.

The share for all cities is $25,135,025; that for all counties is $3,864,g75, for a total of $29,000,000. Adding $6,875,-000 to the counties from the Bradley-Burns 1/4 percent local sales and use tax for the county local transportation fund, and $1,750,000 to San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District from the 1/2 percent transactions and use tax charged in BART counties, brings the total distribution for January 1973 to $37,626,000.

Complete information about qualification requirements, instructions on filing for the test, testing locations, etc. may be obtained at Federal Job Information Centers.

Income Tax Seminar At MPC Planned

Monterey Peninsula College is offering a five-week income tax seminar taught by an agent of the Internal Revenue Service.

The seminar will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning January 23. The seminar will be held in B-7.

Individual return problems will be considered in the seminar with a brief review of employment and withholding tax problems. This seminar doesn't seek to make participants tax experts, according to instructor Robert Fairchilds, but it will attempt to create an awareness of the total tax picture.

Fairchilds is currently working out of the San Jose office of the IRS. He makes field examinations of corporate and individual federal income tax returns.

VISITORS NEEDED NOW

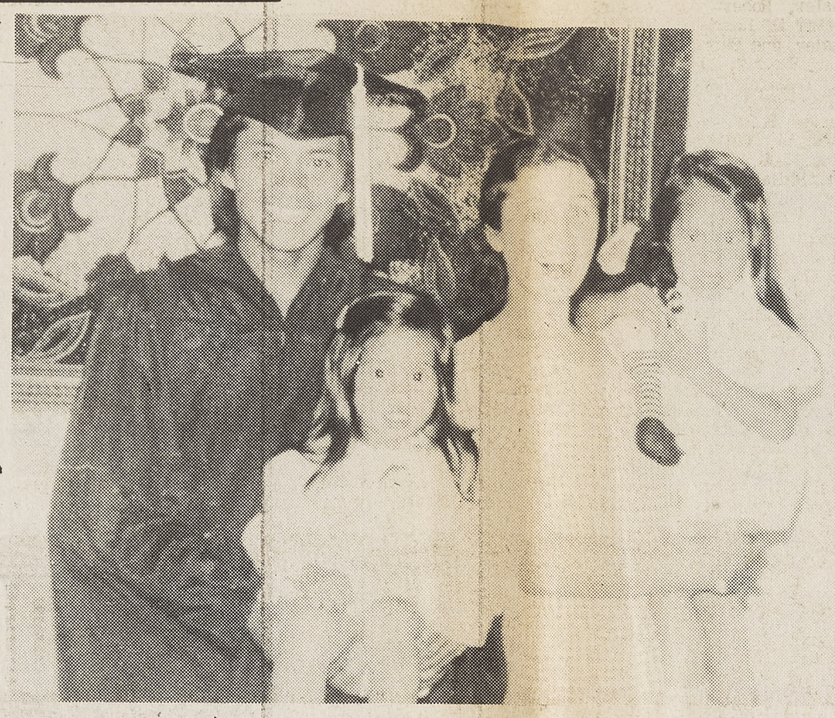
Volunteers are needed for the Visitor Program of the Alliance on Aging to bring the gift of friendship to the large number of elderly or handicapped persons living on the Monterey Peninsula. The need for volunteers is NOW because Thursday, February 8, is the first class in the training program for volunteers. These orientation classes will meet on each of four successive Thursdays, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in the Community Room of St. John's Chapel, Sylvan Road and Mark Thomas Drive, Monterey.

The training covers the physical and emotional needs of the aging and the community resources which may help meet these needs. Guidelines on visiting given by experienced Visitors are also included. Registration is required (373-2335) and there is no fee. The training is given in cooperation with MPC.

The need is great because so many older people find themselves increasingly cut off from the community as they grow older. For both physical and mental well-being, they need regular, friendly contacts with someone who takes a personal interest in them.

Visitors are all volunteers, male or female, of all ages who like older people, and who can find time for a visit at least twice a month. They offer friendship--visiting as they would with any friend, bringing news from the outside world, the community, or of special interest to the shut-ins. Visitors read aloud, bring books from the library, write letters, play games, provide music, or just listen. Volunteer visitors may do simple errands, go shopping, or drive the elderly on short pleasure trips.

For further and complete information, please phone the Alliance on Aging located at Monterey Peninsula College. The phone number is 373-2335.



GRADUATES - Tony Jesus Sison, Jr., and his lovely wife Roberto Acedo beam with pride as they pose with their two daughters after Tony's graduation from California State University, San Jose. E.O.P. Student, he earned his B.A. and immediately enrolled for his teaching credential. Both he and his wife are studying to teach on Peninsula.

Lecture

Everyone can learn to draw on the resources of spiritual enlightenment that result in more constructive and wise decisions, according to a lecture to be given in Monterey on Sunday, february 4th.

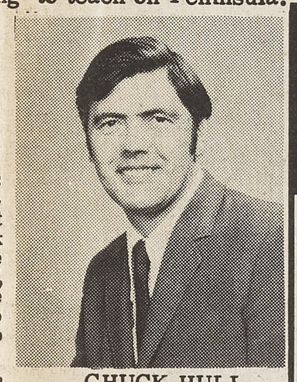
Scout Executive Is Appointed



CHUCK HULL

Charles G. "Chuck" Hull has been selected as the newly appointed Peninsula District Scout Executive, announced Frank Buck, Scout Executive of the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. He replaces Lyman Grover who recently was transfered to Orange County Council.

County Fair Theme Chosen

The theme of the 1973 Monterey County Fair will be "Down to Earth," but the first arena attraction being signed for the new-look Fair will feature two film and recording stars from Mexico.

Fair board members recently approved the theme suggestion, and also approved the contract which Fair manager George Wise and special events director Ed Pio will submit to the National Mexican Rodeo which features Antonio Aguilar and his wife, Flor Silvestre.

In preliminart negotiations the Rodeo expressed interest in appearing at the Fair on the two opening nights, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 14 and 15.

Aguilar is Mexico's top recording star and has appeared in more than 150 movies south of the border as well as one American film, "Undefeated" with John Wayne. He and his wife sing as well as ride during the rodeo events which attract large audiences wherever they are presented.

Because the 6-day National Horse Show will precede this year's Fair, rather than be held at the same time as in the past, the arena will be available during Fairtime for special events such as the National Mexican Radeo. Other events are being scheduled for the remaining four days of the Fair, which will be held from Tuesday, August 14, through Sunday, August 19--one day longer than in previous years.

The Horse Show, which will be held August 6-11, will include 39 junior classes and 93 open classes, which means an addition of 11 junior classes and 21 open ones, the latter mostly working hunter classes of different kinds.

The board's decision, made after last year's Fair and approved in Sacramento, to hold the 6-day Horse Show before the 6-day Fair in order to have room for additional horse stalls and thus more entries, will mean a whole new look at the Fairgrounds this summer. The addition of arena shows, with separate admission tickets, adds a third demension to the previously two-part event, and the time span of twelve days rather than the five of past years, will also make a great difference.

The "Down to Earth" theme offers a lot of possibilities for division chairmen as they plan their exhibits. Things practical and basic or old-fashioned, ecology, craftsmanship, earth in relation to the universe--these were ideas discussed by the board.

Wise told board members that bids for the new $160,000 junior exhibit building will be open Feb. 6, and he hopes for completion of the building by Aug. 1. Bids for rest rooms and showers for exhibitors who stay in trailers at the Fairgrounds will probably be asked for at the same time.

"We certainly hope that the public realizes that we are doing all we can to have the best possible Horse Show and the best possible Fair," commented board president Les Dixon after the meeting.

Tax Deadline Is January 31

All California employers of agricultural employees were reminded recently by R.B. Applegate, Auditor in Charge for the State Department of Human Resources Development in Monterey, that Wednesday, January 31, is the deadline date for filing a contribution return and report of disability insurance wages and report of personal income tax withheld (optional), form DE 7003, for the fourth quarter of 1972. Penalty and Interest will be charged if the report is filed after the deadline.

Employers who need help in preparing their returns and wage reports may contact Applegate at 474 Webster St., Monterey, or telephone 373-0143.

Should Christianity heal today?

Christ Jesus taught and proved the power of Truth to heal.

The Bible records that he "healed all manner of disease among the people," and he taught all those who followed him to "go and do likewise."

And many do.

Christian Science teaches the present power of God to heal, and this healing is going on today throughout the world.

In our Reading Room you will enjoy reading the inspiring weekly Bible Lessons which reveal the spiritually scientific basis for Jesus' marvelous healing works.

You are welcome to come in and read in our quiet room today.

Chicken and Pork Adobo

1	broiling chicken (about 1-1/2 pounds) cut into 6 to 8 pieces;
2	pounds pork (preferably a cut with considerable fat) cut into 1-inch cubes;
1/2	cup vinegar;
4	cloves garlic;
2	tablespoons soy sauce;
1/2	teaspoon salt;
1/4	teaspoon pepper;
2	tablespoons lard or drippings.

Place chicken and pork in saucepan and add vinegar, garlic, soy sauce, salt and pepper. Bring to boil and simmer until meat is tender (approximately 45 minutes). Remove meat and drain, reserving liquid. Saute meat in shortening until well browned. Strain liquied if desired and return to saucepan. Meanwhile, mash or grind the chicken liver and add to the liquid in the saucepan. Add browned meat to the liquid and mix carefully to aboid breaking up the meat. Add more salt and pepper if needed. Serve hot with boiled rice. Serves six to eight.

Sponsor Art Show

Exploration is the theme of "The Child and His Art," featuring art work by children from every elementary school in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District in the Monterey Public Library's Community Room through January 28.

The show, presented for the second year by the Monterey Bay Teachers Association, revolves around exploration by students of materials and media available in the public schools, according to organizer Marguerite Haughton.

Art in the elemtary schools, she said, does more than just provide a child with the satisfaction of having created something of his own. It is also used as a means of helping a child develop communications skills and an understanding of his own feelings.

"Artistic expression can be considered a means of communication, or precisely a language that knows no barriers," she said. "Through the use of symbols, feelings that might otherwise be suppressed are communicated. The use of symbols in the linguistic areas serve the same function. But often young children are not yet prepared for the intricacies of this process. The teacher, by teaching the child techniques and means of expression, can help him to communicate his feelings until he is ready to become involved in the more sophisticated processes."

The teachers' association invites the publis to view the children's art, which ranges from the intriguing paper, macaroni and egg shell creations of first-graders to intricate mosaic work done by sixth graders.

The popularity of last year's exhibit resulted in its being extended from one weekend to an entire week.

Teachers will be on hand during weekend viewing hours, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays, to meet the public and talk art in the schools.

Art Class

An adult art class, with emphasis on drawing and painting, will begin next Wednesday, January 31, at King Junior High in Seaside.

Instructor of the class will be C.Y. Lee, chairman of the Seaside Art Commission. Classes will be held each Wednesday from 7 until 10 p.m. A fee of $3 plus materials will be required of all students.

For more information call 394-2965 or 649-7386.

Nursery School Expands Session

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District has given permission to the Peninsula Parent Nursery School to open a two-day-a-week afternoon session. At the moment, the Peninsula Parent co-op is conducting five morning sessions.

The new afternoon session will start Tuesday, February 20, from 12:30 to 3 o'clock, according to Mrs. Richard Gorman, chairman of the enrollment.

Children between the ages 2-1/2 - 5 years are eligible.

The school is located in the Del Monte School in Monterey. For more information on the new afternoon session, please call the membership chairman Mrs. Roger Woodbury at 372-0396.

WOMEN on Wheels

Plymouth's Liz Stimley
In the Driver's Seat

Steer and Stop Without Power

Failure of power brakes or power steering can scare the wits out of the driver—if he doesn't know what to expect.

The thing to remember is that the car can still be steered and stopped without the power assists. It will take more physical effort, but it can be done.

Every driver should know what it feels like to handle his car when power steering or brakes are inoperative for some reason. So try it for yourself.

While the car is stopped locate the ignition "off" position. Get on a wide, deserted road or a big, empty parking lot and while driving at moderate speed put the transmission in neutral and shut off the engine by turning the ignition key to the "off" position. Be sure you do not turn the key to the "lock" position.

You'll find it much harder to turn the wheel, but you can still steer. Next, tap the brake pedal several times to deplete the power system reserve, and then bear down on the brake pedal. It will take effort, but you can stop.

Both power systems may be restored by re-starting the engine.

It is not likely that you'll have a power braking or steering failure, but if you try the experiment above you'll know what it feels like and realize you can still handle your car.

Harlem Clowns Coming To MPC

Clownball---a basketball game with a show!

That is what local fans will see when the craziest bunch of athletes in the hisoty of sports appear in the Monterey Peninsul College gymnasium on Friday, February 16, 1973.

Master of the game, the Harlem Clowns have combined razzle-dazzle ball handling, precision pass patterns, trick shooting, fancy dribbling and comedy to make theirs the most entertaining show in the business.

Owner Al Pullins coined the name "Clownball" to describe his team's style of play. Through the years the zany antics and shenanigans of his fun loving boys has brought them world-wide as well as national fame.

The Clowns can play straight basketball, and they are experts at the dunk shot, the hook, one-handed push shots and the long shot. These they mix with comedy routines and as the audience warms to their crazy antics, they often come up with spontaneous humor.

The Clowns are able to return to a city year after year--they offer much the same show, but it is so spiced with new talent, tremendous ball handling, shooting and comedy, that capacity crowds continue to come back.

If you've seen them before, you know that the Clowns always try to stage a better-than-ever show and if this is your first time you're really in for a treat.

Some fans like straight basketball, others prefer comedy. So the Clowns dish up generous helpings of both.

"Leave 'em laughing!" is their motto. And it has paid off.

GET IN SHAPE - Harlem Clowns gather each year several weeks before the opening of their five-months tour for a training session. Here the veterans get back into shape and management looks over new talent for organization. Jan Kessler Is Teaching In Seaside

Jan Kessler, mime artist, sculptor, actor, painter, director, fencer, puppeteer, maskmaker and chef, has returned to Seaside as a mime teacher at the Academy of Music.

In addition to teaching, he will establish a performing arts unit which will be a traveling mime and puppet show with a portable stage for performances at Peninsula schools.

The 44-year old artist, who lived in Monterey's Perry House almost a decade ago, has returned to the Peninsula to stay.

He says, "Most people don't realize how beautiful this area is. I'm very much in love with it."

Since leaving the Peninsula in 1963, Kessler spent four years teaching mime at Brandeis University near Boston.

Born in Switzerland, Kessler and his wife have been in the United States for only 14 years. They have spent that time traveling, teaching and performing.

Roundtree Honored In Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA--Richard Roundtree was awarded a special "Ethiopian Oscar" recently by the Imperial Ethiopian Navy at a special screening of "shaft" at the Naval Academy in Massawa, Ethiopia. Roundtree is in Ethiopia filming "Shaft in Africa," third in the "Shaft" series.

The award, a plaque with the brass seal of the Imperial Navy, was presented to Roundtree by Captain Peter Stewart, royal liaison and senior advisor to the Imperial Ethiopian Navy, before an audience of 500 officers and cadets.

Roundtree received a standing ovation from the crowd which viewed the movie in an open air theatre on the shores of the Red Sea. This was the first time that the award was presented to an American actor.

RememberTo Deduct All Sales Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO--

From the California Society of Certified Public Accountants, here is something to watch for in your personal Federal Income Tax Return.

If you itemize your deductions, save income taxes by deducting amounts paid for the five percent California sales tax (for residents of rapid transit district counties, five and one-half percent) and the seven cents per gallon California gas tax. Since few taxpayers keep track of the amounts paid, the Internal Revenue Service has prepared tables of acceptable deductions.

The allowable deduction for sales tax is based on your adjusted gross income and the size of your family. If you claim an amount in excess of the table, be prepared to substantiate it by showing unusual circumstances.

If you bought a new car, you can deduct the sales tax on that in addition to the table.

Pick West Team For Pizza Classic

WICHITA--Two members of the 1972 United States Olympic team, a pair of veterans from defending national champion UCLA and last season's runnerup to the NCAA university division scoring title are among the 50 seniors nominated for the West team in the annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic to be played April 14 in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The 50 west seniors, as well as the 50 East stars, will be listed on a ballot to be distributed at Pizza Hut's 1,000 outlets and by participating universities. Voting begins in January and concludes in mid-march.

Among the standouts nominated for the West team, which will be coached by Bob Boyd of Southern California, are Olympians Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State and John Brown of Miasouri. Also prominent on the ballot are veterans Swen Nater and Larry Hollyfield of UCLA and scoring-machine Rich Fuqua of Oral Roberts.

California topped the list with ten nominees and Coach Boyd, Texas, with a wealth of both NCAA and NAIA talent, placed eight on the ballot. Other western states with three or more nominees are Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma and Washington.

Proceeds from the NCAA and NAIA-sanctioned event will be distributed to four recipients named by the Pizza Hut Charities Foundation, Inc.

Two of the recipients are the Foundation for Research and Education in Sickle Cell Disease and the youth-oriented Basketball Congress of America. Other recipients will be named soon.

Eight of the ten players on each team will be selected by popular vote with the other two being named by a national media and coaching panel.
